Monarchies

Past or Future of forms of government

In Political Science the main difference between monarchies and republics today plays only a minor role - both forms of government can be democratic or autocratic. The lecture focuses on the domination and functioning of the monarchies from an international comparative perspective. This involves on one hand the historical development, on the other hand contemporary forms, competencies and modes of government of the 27 world's existing monarchies.

Prof. Dr. Tom Thieme

Chemnitz University of Technology

19.11. 2014 11:00

CN 152

This lecture is one of the results of student grant competition Transformation of Party Systems in Central Europe

Přednáška je jedním z výstupů studentské grantové soutěže Proměny stranických systémů ve střední Evropě (Dr. Novotný)